Protect Your Hearing

The CDC explains, "The effect of noise on hearing depends on how loud it is (sound intensity) and how long it lasts (duration). Avoiding noisy situations is the best prevention. If you can't avoid the noise, use adequate hearing protection."

If you or others need to shout in order to be heard or cannot understand each other even at arm's length away, the sound is too loud and may damage your hearing over time. The CDC shares five ways to protect your hearing:

- Turn the volume down.
- Walk away from the loud noise.
- Take breaks from the noise.
- Avoid loud, noisy activities and places.
- Use hearing protection.

Our Path to Sustainability

ChemStation has been a steward of the environment since 1977. Our system of delivery to unique refillable containers reduces harmful environmental impacts caused by the disposal of typical drum and tote containment. Our refillable delivery equates to lower manufacturing costs, lower energy use, and less packaging. Our products are also biodegradable and do not pose a threat to the environment. Our system makes life safer and healthier for everyone.

ChemStation's path to sustainability starts with the development of our concentrated products and ends with our system of delivery right to the customer site, meeting the chemical needs of today with care and concern for the natural resources necessary for future generations.

ChemStation enjoys helping our customers live up to their green initiatives. Visit www.chemstation.com to learn more about us.
